New York School of Interior Design

Founded in 1916, New York School of Interior Design (NYSID) is a private, not-for-profit college devoted exclusively to interior design education and related disciplines. NYSID offers certificate, undergraduate, and graduate programs in the fields of interior design, design history and theory, sustainable design, interior lighting design, and healthcare interior design. A wide range of classes is also offered through NYSID’s Institute for Continuing and Professional Studies.

The Albert Hadley Lifetime Achievement Award is given to an individual who has made contributions of outstanding artistic significance to the field of design. Bunny Williams and John Rosselli join Mario Buatta (2011), Jack Lenor Larsen (2012), Geoffrey Bradfield (2013), and Mariette Himes Gomez (2014) as Hadley Award Laureates.

The Thomas N. Armstrong III Award in Landscape Design recognizes outstanding achievement in the field of landscape design and celebrates the intersection of art, design, landscape, learning, the city, and life. Edmund Hollander joins Thomas L. Woltz (2012), Laurie D. Olin (2013), and Charles Jencks (2014) as Armstrong Award Laureates.

Established in 2009, the Green Design Award acknowledges and celebrates individuals and businesses for their efforts to protect and support sustainability and green design. New York Restoration Project joins Green Design laureates Cook + Fox Architects (2009), Broadway Green Alliance (2010), Terrapin Bright Green, LLC (2011), NYC Green Codes Task Force (2012), and Project H Design (2013).
