FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ASA and New York School of Interior Design
Announce Partnership for Appraisal Education in Manhattan

RESTON, VA (August 14, 2013) – Beginning this fall, the New York School of Interior Design will offer Principles of Valuation classes taught by accredited senior appraiser members of the American Society of Appraisers (ASA).

The four-part series of ASA courses are designed for prospective Personal Property Appraisers. The classes focus upon valuation theory and methods that are common to many areas of expertise. These classes are of interest not only to those working with antiques and design but also gems & jewelry, fine art, vintage automobiles, books & manuscripts, oriental carpets and more. The courses offer instruction about personal property valuation as well as an opportunity to meet and collaborate with appraisers from many fields.

“ASA courses in Personal Property Valuation support our goal of offering professionals the knowledge they need to advance their careers and broaden their skills,” says NYSID President David Sprouls.

“We welcome the ASA appraisal studies classes as part of NYSID’s Institute for Continuing & Professional Studies.” Sandra J. Tropper, ASA, current Education Chair of the American Society of Appraisers says: “The American Society of Appraisers looks forward to working with NYSID to help prospective and current appraisers meet increasingly rigorous IRS qualification standards.”

NYSID’s fall 2013 schedule offers the first of four intensive 3.5-day classes beginning on Thursday, September 26th. More information and registration information may be found at www.nysid.edu/icps.

American Society of Appraisers
The American Society of Appraisers is a world renowned and respected international organization devoted to the appraisal profession. As the oldest and only major appraisal organization representing all appraisal specialists, ASA is devoted to providing the highest possible standards in all areas of ethics, professionalism, education and designation criteria. For more information about the American Society of Appraisers, the ASA designation program for appraisers or the Society’s free “Find an Appraiser” Referral System, visit www.appraisers.org or call (800) 272-8258.

New York School of Interior Design
New York School of Interior Design is a private, not-for-profit college devoted exclusively to interior design education and related disciplines. NYSID offers certificate, undergraduate, and graduate programs in the field of interior design, design history and theory, sustainable design, interior lighting design, and healthcare interior design. A wide range of classes are also offered through our Institute for Continuing and Professional Studies. www.nysid.edu.

###